St. Simeon of Emessa, Fool-for-Christ, and his companion, St. John

By Very Rev. Fr. Lawrence Farley

Both Simeon and John left their families to pursue a life of holiness, Simeon leaving his aged mother and John his wife. They became monks in the monastery of St. Gerasim and then left for the desert. At length, Simeon felt led by God to return to the world of society as a fool-for-Christ, to guide men to holiness through the “folly” of speaking the truth few men dared to speak. John advised him to keep his heart separate from the temptations of the world and to remain anchored in God: “Keep your heart from all that you see in the world. Whatever there may be that touches your hand, let it not take hold of your heart. And pray for me, that God may not part us from each other in the age to come.” The two friends embraced each other and parted for the love of God. John remained in the desert, while Simeon returned to the world to guide men there to salvation. Their feast shows how God calls His children along different paths of holiness to the same goal of eternal life.

Holy Prophet Ezekiel

By Very Rev. Fr. Lawrence Farley

Ezekiel was the son of Buzi and a priest in the temple. He was taken captive from Jerusalem to Babylon in the reign of King Jehoiachin in 597 BC. He formed the center of a group of Jewish exiles by the River Chebar. Ezekiel had visions of the divine glory as God's chariot-throne — showing that the divine glory dwelt not just in the Jerusalem temple but, like a chariot, could be present anywhere, even in exile. He prophesied judgment on Judah and the surrounding nations as well as their restoration under the Messiah. He spoke also of Christ, the Son of David, as their Good Shepherd (Ezek. 34:23), of God washing them with water and giving them a new heart (Ezek. 36:25-26), and of the resurrection of the nation to new life (Ezek. 37).
